

Contributions and other Expenses

During the year, América Móvil's operations made contributions and expenses for lobbying, representing interests, or similar, as well as for commercial associations or tax-exempt groups.

It is important to specify that our Integrity and Compliance Program prohibits spending on political contributions. We do not make monetary contributions to political campaigns or organizations, lobbyists, trade associations, and other tax-exempt groups with the intention of influencing campaigns or legislation.

However, we carry out annual payments derived from our affiliation with business chambers such as ANATEL and GSMA, as well as other industrial chambers in which we participate in the countries in which we operate.

Three of our subsidiaries, Claro Colombia, Claro El Salvador, and Claro Puerto Rico, carry out lobbying investments to monitor bills that may arise in their local Legislature with the potential to become law, thus helping in their relationships to participate in different ways along with the industry in these legislative processes to bring the company's position, either for or against these measures. It is important to reiterate that these contributions were not intended to influence public policy.
